

Janet Kivett Knight About Me

My name is Janet Kivett Knight, and I have been hired to manage the Community Plan Update project for Yale First Nation.

I am a community planner who has worked with several First Nations on community plans and other projects, including communities in Labrador, Siska First Nation, Xwisten, and the Northern St'át'imc. I just finished a degree at UBC in Indigenous Community Planning and am grateful to have the opportunity to work with Yale First Nation on this project.

I am originally from a small farming community in Ontario, and my family (Dad, 2 brothers, my sister in law, niece and nephew), still live there. I've moved around a lot for work, including being lucky enough to live and work in the Arctic, and now in BC. I love being out on the land, or having good conversations over tea and knitting.

I'm excited to meet all of YFN's members and chat about what you would like to see for the community. Please come say hi!
